PLANS OF ACTORS AND MANAGERS.

Contracts were closed on Monday by E. G. Gilmore, "Al." Hayman and Charles Frohman, by which the production of David Relasco and Clay M. Greene's melodrama "Under The Polar Star" will be the next big production that will be given at Niblo's Garden. Mr. Gilmore has agreed to present the play early in April for a run through Easter time.

Miss Rose Coghlan had an interesting experience in Montreal last Friday night, while playing in " Jocelyn. About 600 students took possession of the gallery, and between the acts entertained the audience with colbaskets of flowers to Miss Coghlan by means of wires, thus evading the theatre's rule of "no flowers over the footlights." At the close of the play the students called Miss Coghlan before the curtain and

A. M. Palmer takes formal possession of his nev theatre next Monday night, with a presentation of Held by the Enemy." The first English word spoken upon that stage under the new management will be the familiar phrase "Who goes there?"

"A Brass Monkey" is crowding the record at the Eljou Opera House, where many people are being turned away nightly unable to secure seats.

Next Monday night another of Charles H. Hoyt' farce comedies, "A Hole in the Ground," will be seen in this city at the Fourteenth Street Theatre, where it will be presented for two weeks, with handsome scenery and accessories.

The receipts for the first five performances of "The Yeomen of The Guard" at the Casino were over $8,000, and, judging by the advance sale, Manager Aronson is confident that the first month of the new opera will yield at least $50,000. As compared with the business done by "Erminie" and "Nadly" for the same period, the present attraction is decidedly the greatest financial success. The management have fitted up a new cloak-room on the parquet floor, and no charge will be made for checking coals, umbrellas or wrans.

Arrangements have been made for the appearan of J. K. Emmet at the Fourteenth Street Theatre April 22, in his new play, "Fritz in a Mad House." The ship to be used in the forthcoming production of "The Fugitive" will be an exact model of the English mail packet Melbourne, which was wrecked off the English coast in 1880.

Amberg's German Comedy Company appeared at the Star Theatre last night in a dainty little three-act comedy entitled "Sie Weist Etwas" (She Knows Something). The house was well filled and applause was bestowed with a free hand, whie the laughter was continuous. To-morrow night the bill will be again changed to "Tilly," which will be continued the remainder of the week.

mainder of the week.

An elaborate revival of Shakespeare's "Midsummer Night's Dream" is announced at the Star Theatre, beginning on Monday, October 29. It is understood that this will have an unusually picturesque presentation. The cast contains some well-known names, who have been highly spoken of wherever they have appeared. It is the intention of the management to make a special feature of the music which Mendelssohn composed for this play, and which will be given by a full orchestra, chorux, and soloists. Among the attractions announced are a ballet of fairfes and children, and a fine panoramic effect, portraying the voyage of Puck and his fairy co-workers through fairyland, by Henry E. Hoyt.

MR. DALY ANNOUNCES HIS NEW PLAY.

Augustin Daly announced officially yesterday that "The Undercurrent" is the name he has decided upon for the new melodrama he intends producing at undercurrent of evil in human nature. The play, however, is not altogether new. Mr. Daly has taken the best characters and strongest sensational features from his two old melodramas, "Under The Gaslight" around them. It treats of both high and low life of the present day in and about London, and besides this morning. The following report, made by the special committee appointed to decide on the neces-sary qualifications for membership, was unanimous-"Any male person of good moral character who is already, or who intends to become an American citizen, being not less than eighteen years of age, of British birth, or the son or grandson of such person, and who is prepared to subscribe to the declaration of principles of the National British-American Association."

The report of the Committee on Constitution was received, and the constitution prepared by it was adopted. The form of installation of officers used by the British-American Association of Illinois was adopted for the use of the National Association, to be used in all its branches.

A FATAL FALL FROM A MOVING TRAIN.

WHY COLORED MEN ARE REPUBLICANS.

WHY COLORED MEN ARE REPUBLICANS.

Prom The People's Advocate.

When they (the few colored men who are Democrates) produce their remedy (for the Southern negro's positior) we beg leave to give them to understand that it is worse than the disease. The Republicans failed to protect the negro in his rights because of the bitter opposition of the Democratic South.

This failure might be the same to-day under our Constitution; but the moral influence of the Republican party South by the appointment of Federal officers in sympathy with the tenets of the party would stimulate the negro to renewed and continual assertion of his rights. That is what is wanted, assertion, not a surrender, but a manly persistence of his rights, The Democratic South is not only opposed to the negro as a Republican—it is opposed to him as an equal clitzen.

Innorance, poverty, maladministration of government, is simply a pretext. It is a question of race hatred, which the changing of party lines cannot efface.

HIS TRIP WEST.

CONFIDENT THAT INDIANA WILL GIVE THE RE PUBLICAN TICKET A HANDSOME MAJORITY -REVIEWING THE JOHN J. O'BRIEN LE-GION AT THE NATIONAL HEADQUAR-TERS-TO SPEAK TO-NIGHT IN THE MADISON SQUARE GARDEN.

James G. Blaine arrived in this city yesterday about noon from Rochester, back from his Westers trip. He stepped from the train a picture of health and with a quick, light step hurried through the crowd to a carriage and was driven to the Fifth Avenue Hotel. Mr. Blaine travelled in General Al-ger's private car, which was attached to the Cincinnati express. The train was about half an hour late. He was accompanied by his son, Walker Blaine, General Adam King, ex-Judge Thurston, Congressman Charles A. Boutelle, of Maine, and Dwight Lawrence, of this city General King has accomjoined Mr. Blaine at Rochester, where both spoke. Mr. Lawrence met the party at Buffalo, and acted as an escort in behalf of the Republican State Com-It was not generally known that Mr. Blaine was on the train, but as soon as he stepped off the train a crowd of people recognized him, but Mr. Blaine did not stop. After luncheon Mr. Blaine and his son took a drive until 5 o'clock, going to Central Park and Riverside Park. Then he received some callers, among whom were ex-Senator T. C. olonel Fred. D. Grant, General Husted and Colonel Goodlee, the latter dining with him. Walker Blain said that his father had greatly enjoyed his trip and was feeling confident of success in Indiana. He had as large audiences as he had in 1884, and even a larger one in Indianapolis than four years ago. Ev erything is given up to politics in Indiana; the State is mobilized, and Mr. Blaine believes that Indiana will give Harrison and Morton a handsome majority He was also greatly pleased with his visit to the other States and thought that the outlook indicated the election of Harrison and Morton. "I believe myself," said Walker Blaine, "that we will carry Indiana, sure." READY FOR THE BIG MEETING TO-NIGHT.

Mr. Blaine's health is excellent, and he has entirely ecovered from hoarseness, as the thousands will learn when they hear him speak to-night at Madison Square Garden, at the Irish-American meeting. He will remain in this city until the last of this week, probably well into next week. Walker Blaine said that with the exception of the speech in Albany on Tuesday, his father's movements were as yet undecided. Gen-eral King said that the speeches of the Maine states man had won thousands over to the Republican party, and he himself was sanguine of success. Captain Boutelle, who has stumped the interior of the State, is jubilant over the outlook, and says that the Re-publicans will roll up an astonishing vote in the inerior of the State

Another of Mr. Blaine's friends who paid his respects to Mr. Blaine last night was Lewis Barker, of Bangor. Mr. Barker is a veteran Republican campaigner and a sagacious politician. Mr. Barker has just from an extensive trip out West. On Friday he met General Harrison and some of the Indiana politicians. From the conversation he had, Mr. Barker is confident that Indiana is "all right." In Connecticut he saw Nathan D. Sherry and Joseph L. Barbour. Mr. Barker says "We've got them 'licked'. I never saw the American people so thoroughly aroused since the war."

the war.

The corridors of the Fifth Avenue Hotel were througed last night with people inquiring for Mr.
Blaine, and as he left there about $:30 p. m., to go to National Headquarters, they soon followed in his lead, It was a surprise to the members of the National Committee when Mr. Blaine, Walier Blaine, General King and Congressman Boutelle went to the Republican Headquarters to review the O'Brien Legion as it passed the building. Of course, it was known that the paradle would pass the headquarters building and all the members of the committee were there when Mr. Blaine and his friends arrived. REVIEWING A PARADE.

A large crowd had already assembled in front of being full of action will have plenty of attractive seenery, the play being divided into four acts and sixteen scenes.

Mr. Daly said yesterday that he wrote the drama for Mr. Chatterton, of the Drury Lane Theatre, London, about ten years ago, but the management of the theatre changed hands before arrangements could be completed for the production of the play, and since then it had lain in his drawer untouched. Recent demands for that class of drama, however, induced Mr. Daly to produce it himself. The cast for the engagement at Nblo's, which lasts for six weeks, has been selected with special regard for talent rather than for prominence in the profession, as Mr. Daly desires to have his piece well acted.

THE BRITISH-AMERICAN ASSOCIATION.
Chicago, Oct. 24.—The British-American National Association was in session at the Grand Pacific Hotel the morning. The following report, made by the it floated side by side with the French, German and Irish National colors. The column started from Mr. O'Brien's headquarters, at Grand and Forsyth sta., shortly after 8 o'clock, the men being formed in companies. The route was up the Bowery to Houston-st., to Washington Square and Fifth-ave. Skyrockets Roman candles, red, blue and green lights were burned all along the route, and at many places the paraders were welcomed with a plentiful display of fireworks and enthusiastic applause. When the parade arrived near the Republican Headquarters the men were formed in review order of companies 22-file front, and in this position they marched passed, cheering loudly for the Republican candidates and Mr. Rialne. Marshals Kraus, Carroll and Smith had charge of the parade.

Marshals Kraus, Carroll and Smith had charge of the parade.

After the parade had gone by, the thousands who had been closely packed on neighboring stoops and on each side of the street surged toward the head-quarters shouting for a speech. Mr. Blaine made a short but effective one when he said: "Gentlemen: Unite with me in three rousing cheers for Harrison and Morton, and Miller and Cruger." Mr. Blaine led in the cheers that followed, and a rousing tiger was given.

The big meeting to-night in the Madison Square Garden will undoubtedly be a great success. meeting is held, will more than pack the big building. Mr. Blaine is in first-class health, and his voice is in excellent condition. His speech will be one of his greatest efforts in this campaign. Patrick Ford will chairman, and will introduce Mr. Blaine and the other speakers.

Bayne's 65th Regiment band will be on hand, and there will be music and enthusiasm without bounds. The application for tickets has been extensive, and many more than could possibly be seated on the speakers' plaiform have sent requests for seats. As there are several speakers to be heard besides Mr. Blaine, an effort will be made to have the speaking begin as promptly as possible, so that there will be time for all to be heard. Colonel John F. Finerty, of Hlinois, cannot get here in time to speak, but Alexander Sullivan, Patrick Egan and David Healey will be present and deliver addresses.

QUAIL HUNTERS HARD TO PLEASE. From The Indianapolis Journal.

From The Indianapolis Journal.

The sportsman is a funny fellow, and so is his dog and the quall they hunt. Last year, at this time, he was complaining about the dry stubble-fields in the neighborhood of the city, and that it was impossible to get in range of the birds because the parched grass wouldn't retain their seem long enough for the dog to "point" them. This year he is kicking because it is too wet, and that the birds won't flish until they are almost trampled upon, while the stubble retains the seem so long that the dog is kept busy "pointing" out places where they might have roosted the previous night. The quali isn't a spring chicken, and knows how to take care of itself in and out of season. It can run through the weeds almost as fast as a dog, and can fly a good deal faster than some men can shoot, as many amateurs have discovered.

NOT A BAD TEST OF WEIGHT. From The San Francisco Wasp.

From The San Francisco Wasp.

A plumber and an upholsterer were recently engaged in fitting up a fashionable residence in Van Ness-ave., and got into a discussion as to which was the heavier, a pound of lead or a pound of feathers.

"I'll bet you four bits that I can prove to you that a pound of lead is heavier than a pound of feathers," said the plumber.

"I'll take that bet," said the upholsterer.

"I'll take that bet," said the upholsterer.

The plumber cut off a piece of lead pipe and pared it down until it weighed sixteen ounces. Then he got from the upholsterer the same weight in feathers.

"Now," said the plumber, holding the lump of lead in his right hand and the bag of feathers in his left hand, "let me drop the lead on your left foot and the feathers on your right, and if I do not prove that the lead is the heavier I'll pay four bits."

The man of feathers would not consent to the trial, but paid for the whiskey and cigars.

The resolution request the President to send a special message to Congress calling attention to and demanding some legislation on trusts and combines now existing in this country.

HOW TO STOP ELECTION FRAUDS. A CANADIAN LIBERAL'S METHOD AND ITS GOOD RESULTS.

To the Editor of The Tribune. Sir: The offer of $25,000 by the National Republican Committee as a reward for the exposure of corrupt practices in the coming election cannot fail to give satisfaction to those who desire an honest contest. In my Parliamentary election contests in Canada I always obtained the names of 100 prominent electors who would subscribe $50 each for the purpose of offering a reward of $500 for inforperson guilty of corrupt practices. We then issued a large poster with the 100 names upon it, under an agreement to pay $50 each; and then followed a reward of $500 for every case in which the information given led to conviction. I placarded the entire district with these large posters and published tire district with these large posters and published them in all the leading newspapers. My Tory opponents well understood that a man who would commit an illegal or corrupt act for a small sum of money would be pretty certain to expose the act for the sum of $500, and therefore, they were afraid to attempt to carry an election by fraud.

I used this poster in three elections successfully. Had I not done so I believe the Tories, by corruption, would have carried the ridings. If similar action is taken in every Assembly district in the State, I believe the result would be highly beneficial to the Republican party, which desires an honest vote and an honest count, rather than to the Democratic policy of voting early and voting often. Yours truly, FRANCIS WAYLAND GLEN.

WOMEN ABUSE A LAWYER IN A CORRIDOR THEY KEEP STILL WHILE HE IS TALKING, BUT

THEY SPEAK EFFECTIVELY LATER. Ellen Fitzgerald, an Irish woman seventy-eight years old, says that on July 14, 1884, Daniel Mc-Cabe induced her to make her mark at the end of a document which he represented was a will leaving her property to her relatives and remembering his daughter Julia. She declares that the paper was in fact a deed of a Brooklyn house and lot which had been purchased with the savings of her husband and herself, and which had become hers absolutely at the death of her husband. She alleges fraud and in a death of her husband. She anges had all sult against McCabe and his daughter, which was brought to trial yesterday in the Supreme Court before Justice Beach and a jury, demands that the deed which was given to McCabe be set aside.

Mrs. Fitzgerald, who is decrepid and whose memory seems to be failing her, was a difficult witness to manage. She, however, told her story after much husband kept a store in this city, and by dint of industry and saving were enabled to purchase the property. McCabe occasionally visited them, and after her husband's death his visits became more frequent. He gave her whishey punch on various occasions and did so on the day that she placed her mark on the deed. Afterward a physician who had attended her called upon her and found her destitute. In opening the case for the defence, Peter A. Hendricks told the jury that the McCabes had for years been intimate with Mrs. Fitzgerald, who had great love for Mr. McCabe's daughter. The counsel deciared that the old woman's relatives and friends, of whom there were a dozen in court, had her under their influence and were anxious now to have the deed set aside in order that they could get the benefit of it. He made the assertion that they all had indications of being free drinkers upon their countenances. He wished later in the day that he had tenances. He wished later in the day that he had not made this remark, for when the court adjourned the women to whom he had referred surrounded him in the corridor and abused him for having slandered them in the presence of the court. He had some difficulty in escaping from them. Mr. Perry, a lawyer, testified that when the old lady signed her mark to the deed she thoroughly understood what she was doing. The case will be continued to-day.

A DAILY WAGON LOAD OF MONEY.

A DAILY WAGON LOAD OF MONEY.

From The Chicago Herald.

This operation may be witnessed any morning by a man who likes to look at wealth and not handle it.

8. M. Niekerson, the president of the First National. is interested in the bank at the Stock Yards, and money is sent out there daily. Usually four men, all heavily armed and ready for trouble, guard it, but last Saturday the demand for money to pay the hands was so much greater than usual that the powerful springs of the wagon came together with the load, and there was no chance for a fourth man. The precious burden is drawn south to Archerava, and when the driver strikes that thoroughfare the splitted team is kept on the jump until the Stock Yards bank is reached.
